NOVATO CHOIR HISSED; MUSIC CRITIC EJECTED

The choir of St. Francis Episcopal Church in Novato was singing "Rise Up, Oh Men of God" during a rehearsal last night when one of the female voices suddenly burst into a scream.

In the main aisle, directly behind the director, Mrs. Barbara Carter, was a foot-long rattlesnake.

"Everyone remained calm," related Mrs. Kenneth Rowland, a choir member, "until it coiled and started hissing. Then it was terrifying."

David Rooney of the bass section, assisted by the other 10 singers and organist E. Y. Perryman, scooped the angry reptile into a bucket. "We didn't kill it," said Mrs. Rowland today. "As far as I know, it's still in the bucket outside the front door of the church."

He said the cost of maintaining the proposed swimming pools, community building, tennis courts and other facilities and the revenue expected from it "won't quite balance—a certain amount of money will have to come out of community services district taxes." (The district has levied taxes for 1959-60 at 96 cents per $100 assessed valuation; the legal limit on its taxing power is $1 per $100 assessed valuation.)

Namle said cost of the bond retirement should average about $21 per year per Terra Linda family. In addition, "it is proposed that" each adult user of the swimming pools be assessed $5 per year and each child user $2 per year. SANTA BARBARA (A)-Two amateur radio operators said a yacht radioed today it had been rammed by a submarine and was sinking. A Coast Guard search failed to turn up anything immediately, and there was no confirmation from any other source.

The collision was alleged to have taken place about 15 miles off Southern California's Point Conception. The distress calls said 12 persons were aboard the yacht

Two Coast Guard planes and a Coast Guard cutter said they could find no sign of a yacht or wreckage.

At the Coast Guard district headquarters at Long Beach a spokesman said that so far the Coast Guard had been unable to determine that such a yacht, whose name was given as the Unicorn, is based in this area.

There was some skepticism about the distress call and speculation that it might be a hoax.

The Navy submarine service in San Diego said there was no American submarine operating within 100 miles of the yacht's reported position.

Gas To Commute To Moon, Drinks To Put State In Orbit

Californians manage to consume more liquids than anybody, whether it be beer or gasoline.

The State Board of Equalization has just released the figures for consumption of gasoline, whiskey, beer and wines during the fiscal year ended last June 30. This is the way the Capitol News Service summarized the board's report:

"Californians used enough gasoline last year to drive 66 billion miles, or the equivalent of a round trip to the moon two and a half times each week for a

How closely the news service figures its lunar distances we're not equipped to say. But California motorists did use nearly five billion 405 million gallons of gasoline in the 12 months.

At the state tax rate of 6 cents per gallon (the other 3 cents you pay is federal tax), that amount of gasoline brought in $324,290,820, much of which is earmarked for state highway construction work. The total is 5.6 per cent higher than the previous record year.

But even that great growth was eclipsed by the drinkers. Total alcoholic beverage sales gained 8.9 per cent, led by hard liquors which increased 9.1 per

According to the state board, 146 cans of beer, 212 shots of distilled spirits and 64 glasses of wine were consumed for every man, woman and child in California.

In all, California drinkers swallowed 219½ million gallons of beer, nearly 25 million gallons of hard liquor, and 293/4 million gallons of wine.

This brought in more than 42 million dollars in taxes, nearly 90 per cent of it from the hard liquor drinkers. In the current year, beer drinkers are going to pay a larger share because the recent Legislature increased the tax on beer.

We don't know what this all adds up to unless it is this: More Californians are drinking more and they're willing to drive an awfully long way to get it.

Why Doesn't Someone Figure Way To Make Money Out Of Wasps?

With all the ideas that have come up on how to get rid of wasps, it's surprising someone hasn't evolved a way to make money out of the insects themselves.

Everyone, apparently, has been busy trapping the little nuisances. Just get a pail of soapy water and hang some meat over it on a board. When the wasps, heavy with food, attempt to dive away, they land in the water and drown. That is one idea. Another is to construct a birdcage that looks like a woman's hat and trap the insects. My idea is to swat them with a newspaper, or go after them with paper tissue, being careful, of course, not to get stung.

BUT THERE should be some way to make money out of the little beasts.

They have to be trapped and killed, of course, and the stingers removed. Who wants a dead wasp around with a stinger.

The stingers, I understand, still have a little poison in them and can do just as much damage as if the wasps were alive. I've never had the courage to test this theory.

But to get back to moneymaking.

People-maybe not you and me-but some people have always eaten insects. People in Mexico, I understand, are always chomping on grasshoppers. The French eat snailsbut they are not insectsneither the French or the snails.

THE IDEA IS that some people pay good money to eat things that you and I would swat with a newspaper or capture in a Kleenex.

just like candy. It isn't. It's bugs. There are chocolate covered bees and worms and all sorts of things. I have not tried them, but per wrapped objects. Looks

I'm not interested in that aspect of it. I just think that if people will eat chocolate covered bugs, they will eat chocolate covered wasps.

IF THE WASPS can be caught and their stingers removed, perhaps cooked in some nice syrup, they could be dipped in chocolate. I think you could melt the chocolate in the top of the double boiler and have your wife dip them, one by one, after, of course, she has removed the stingers.

Then you could save all your little plastic boxes, wrap the chocolate covered wasps in left-over Christmas paper and pack them.

Something like that might go over at a ladies' bazaar or a club social, or one of the food benefit things where you take a cake and then buy it back for dinner. Only in the case of wasps you might want to be careful - just gently place them on the sales table and then run as though you've been stung.

OR YOU COULD save a few for your guests. Imagine saying at a party, "Will you have a chocolate covered wasp? We raise them ourselves!"

Why am I not in the chocolate covered wasp business? Well, for one thing, I just thought of it, and I think it's too good a thing to keep to myself. And for another. wasps are getting scarce. End of the season, I guess.

But I'm going to save my Christmas wrapping paper-The idea isn't new. Go to and next year who knows, any big supermarket and you Don's Dandy Chocolate Cov-hower go to the Soviet Union to return Premier Khrushchev's visit to the U.S.?

Former President Truman earnestly advises him not to do so. Truman approves the invitation to Khrushchev, but feels that for Eisenhower to make "a ceremonial" trip to Russia would dissipate "the power and leadership of the presidency."

If the trip which the President is planning to make to Russia were primarily "ceremonial," I would agree with Truman. I believe that Truman's premise is wrong and therefore his conclusion is not well taken.

McGUFFEY'S ENGRAVING - The pensive little girl pictured in Mc-Guffey's fourth reader is not sad but engrossed in thought. It is an illustration for a story called "How Margery Wondered." It tells how she sits on the seashore and wonders about the beauty she sees around her.

STATE TEXT ILLUSTRATION — Fourth graders in California public schools read stories with colored illustrations such as these in the state text "Meeting New Friends." It shows Norsemen fashioning dishes from soapstone found in Greenland.

MODERN MORAL — Knowing how to read should be prized, according to the illustrated story pictured here. It is in "More Times and Places," a fourth grade supplementary reader used by many public schools in Marin County. (Independent-Journal photos)

These 14 TIPS FOR HOME BUYERS

(1) Take the "All Alone" Look.

(2) Forget Basements Questionable use-often costly space.

(3) Demand storage space for everything.

Discount giveaways: The "giver" probably has no choice-you probably want to CHOOSE YOUR OWN drapes, carpets, etc.

(5) Watch "low taxes"— It may mean inadequate public services.

(6) Buy privacy—not "lots of space." Too much room can be costly maintenance.

(7) Don't be TOO cautions: A little extra "house" is less extra cost NOW than adding

(8) Avoid gaudy patchwork exteriors. A house "all in one piece" wears better.

(9) Avoid the cute or futuristic. Experimental homes can be costly-TO YOU.

(10) Don't skimp in the kitchen. A lot of time is spent in this "workroom." Might as well

(11) Save something for closing—
This takes CASH—it can't ALL go to the down payment.

(12) Get a pre-payable mortgage. Don't risk unnecessary penalty for paying up the loan in

(13) Pick out your Eichler Home today.

(14) Ask salesman for site map.
